THE WAYSIDE PUMP.

"Shake hands!" says the wayside pump—
Best of friends on a summer day,
And sweetest talker you ever knew,
Although, no doubt, 'tis true
He speaks through his nose in a careless way
That would make a precisian jump!
"Shake hands!" How his arm of oak
Stretches out as you draw a-nigh!
All he asks is an easy stroke,
To pour you out, as smooth as smoke,
A sweeter nectar than you could buy.
What! do you doubt it?—only try!
Take that cup from the rusty nail,
Hold it under the gurgling spout.
Well, how goes it, this Adam's ale?
Pump away; you can't pump him out!
Hearts like his weren't made to fail.
Three full cups? Ah! you need not tell
Whether you like him ill or well.

So he stands by the dusty way—
God's own landlord—and seems to say,
"Drink your fill: there is naught to pay!"
Thirsty horses, with nostrils wide,
Plunge their heads in his mossy trough,
Drink, and crop from the cool wellside
A bunch of grass—and then amble off.

And now the deep chested oxen come,
And drain the trough at a single draft.
Their great eyes glisten, though they are dumb,
And thank the pump for the nectar quaffed.
The smoking team 'neath the load of hay
Lovingly turn their eyes that way—
They, too, shall drink, for the axle swings,
And the outstretched noses kiss the cool,
Sweet stream from the spout that springs
Like a mountain brook in a mossy pool.
The farmer's dog with his lolling tongue
Laps and pants till he laps his fill.
Then the creaking wheels from the rut are swung,
And the fragrant load sways up the hill.

Dear old wayside friend.
Doing good in thy time and place,
Full of cheer as a good man's face,
Overflowing with simple grace
Of giving whate'er thou hast to spend,
Would that I were as true a man
As thou art pump, on thy humbler plan!
Out of my hands kind deeds would go;
Out of my heart sweet love would flow;
Round me all nourished life would grow,
And ev'ry pilgrim with thirst opprest
Would stop to bless me and to be blest.

—James Buckham in Youth's Companion.

THE DIVER'S TRAP.

Everybody knows Old Point Comfort, Fort Monroe, Newport News, the Rip Raps and Hampton Roads—at least on the maps and in the history of the civil war.

The story I am going to tell had its scenes in that locality, chiefly under the waters of Hampton Roads, and the time runs through nearly three centuries.

On a black, stormy night in 1729 there came sailing in past Henlopen a Spanish caravel, the El Dorado, carrying 10,000 ounces of gold in ingots of 50 pounds each.

The don in command looked in vain over the black, seething waste of water for a light of a boat that might have on board a native of the coast. He paced the gallery to the high prowed ship, called on all the saints and tore his hair out in handfuls.

All the time the caravel drove on in the storm and struck the reef where the ripraps were constructed long afterward.

Next morning she had disappeared. No one had seen her. One survivor of the crew washed to shore and lay dead to all appearance. Not a soul in the world knew that a rich treasure ship had been on the spot.

Old Louis Peran was about the oldest man living anywhere on Maryland east shore. He had been born there and his father before him. They were not of the ancient Maryland stock. A tradition went that the first Peran known there was of Spanish blood, old Louis Peran's great-grandfather.

Louis Peran himself showed no trace of such blood, but his young grandson—likewise a Louis Peran—had an olive complexion, black curly hair, large brilliant dark eyes, and the haughty nose of the original Peran, whose portrait hung in the old parlor of the manor house. The intermarriages had all been with the early English colonial families. Perans had fought in both wars—the Revolution and the civil war—and in the last four men of the family had given their lives, and now, in 1872, the old grandfather and the young grandson comprised the whole race. Not a man nor woman else was left of the Perans.

This October evening the two sat on the old, dilapidated veranda. It had an outlook on the Atlantic, and white winged clippers were skimming the waves in the moonlight.

"Louis," said the old grandfather suddenly, laying down his pipe, "you love the sea, and I am going to tell you a sea story. Every Peran loves the sea, but for 200 years I know of one only that has been a sailor.

"I am going to tell you of that Peran and of his ship. My father told me the story, and you may tell your son some day. Still I don't think you will. I think it will be no longer private family history by the time you are gray headed.

"It was in 1729 that the El Dorado, 20 guns, Don Louis Juan de Aguado Perano commander, was selected to convey from the Peruvian and Mexican mines an immense treasure in gold and gems home to the king of Spain.

"Don Louis gathered his treasure safely enough, but one night, flying the yellow royal standard of Spain, he drove in here before an awful storm and sank on a reef. Adverse winds had beat him out of his course for days, and it was all unknown waters.

"Just one man was saved. He had been struck on the head by falling timbers and was picked up on the shore senseless. When his health was restored his memory was a blank. He could not tell his name nor what country he sailed from. He had been found on the beach, nearly naked, but he could tell absolutely nothing, not even the name of his ship, or that he had come from a ship. His speech was Spanish—that was all that remained of his identity. He learned English as he recovered, forgetting his Spanish utterly.

"He was a fine, handsome man, with a proud air of command. He remained in the family—it was here on this estate—and married the daughter, and this manor house has come down to us, as you know, from them.

"When he was a very old man, he was one day at a barn raising, and by another strange turn of circumstances a falling beam struck him on the head. The injury was a fatal one at his advanced age, but it restored the memories he had lost for 57 years.

"To his oldest son he gave his history and his name. He told them that he had sworn to take on board the El Dorado the king's treasure and guard it and deliver it at Barcelona. The memory of the oath on the crucifix seemed to haunt him with terrifying distinctness. He laid commands on his son to guard the secret of the location of the lost treasure and to transmit it to his son, and so it was to do down until such time as the treasure could be recovered and restored to the sovereign of Spain."

"A very interesting story, grandfather," said the young Louis, speaking now for the first time. "So we are of noble blood. He was a grandee of Spain! Blue blood! Well, now, grandfather, you know I don't care for such distinctions."

"Be silent, Louis," said the old man sternly. "To decry the value of blood is ignorance indeed." And then he went on: "None of us has been able to attempt the recovery of this treasure. Nor have we seen how it was ever to be possible in the future. But lately I have read of divers who go down to the bottom of the sea and perform wonderful feats there. I feel an old man's presentiment regarding you, Louis—that you are the one of the race to redeem the oath to Spain. Swear it to me, Louis."

"Indeed, grandfather, I cannot do any such thing," interrupted the boy. "If you say it is a point of family honor to try to restore this fabulous treasure, I'll promise to do my best, but I'll not swear it."

After a moment the eager look faded out of the old man's eyes. He smiled. "So be it," he said. The boy was looking at him fearlessly, and he was struck by the resemblance to the old portrait over the mantelpiece, a fine, tall, muscular young fellow, with the brilliant eyes and the léonine expression. "The Perans were never promise breakers," he said. Then he added: "Among my papers is a rough chart drawn by Don Louis. If you do not use it, pass it on to your son."

One morning in 1877 a curious looking craft sailed in past the capes and anchored in Hampton Roads, about two lengths from the rip-raps. Its commander was a fine looking boy about 18, and the crew were 12 stout Cape Codders. On board were diver's outfits, planks, barrels, chains, windlasses, endless coils of rope and some queer engines.

The young captain at once set all hands at work. Drags were got out, and the bottom of the sea was swept for a circular space of five acres. A very old chart was consulted for bearings, but as it was made from memory by an old man at point of death it was liable to be in error.

The grappling irons brought up nothing of any value, but young Louis Peran—for of course it was he—was not a whit discouraged.

He had sold the old manor house and the Peran plantation after his grandfather's death and had gone north into the employ of a famous diver. For three years he had been in the heavy work at Hell Gate in New York harbor. After that he had made a voyage to Spain.

"The young captain," as he was called, put on a diver's suit and went to the bottom. Tom Newell, a fine diver, accompanied him. The trip was apparently fruitless. They had trouble with a current near the bottom, which ran very fast at flood tide and made it difficult to keep their feet. They found the bed of the roads swept bare of mud in some places; in others covered with loose bowlders. Sand had been piled in high banks by the set of the tides. In some places the water was clear as crystal, in others turbid and muddy.

There the young captain began to study. He anchored buoys at the corner of a square and took observations of these changes of place from the flood and ebb tides and from the currents. He spent hours under water examining the contour of the bottom. With Newell he made a map showing all the details for an area of about 10 acres.

I will let Tom Newell step in here and tell the rest of the story:

We worked for about 30 days at the charting. The weather was mild and the water in the Roads comparatively still, and we had had little to hinder us. We had the usual experience with large fish at the bottom. One day a school of dogfish swarmed around. These fellows are nasty customers, for they are armed with two short daggers of bone near the tail, and a slash from one of them is serious. They are cannibals too. If one of their number is hurt, the other fellows gobble him up.

Sharks, too, we had, but not man eaters. One big fellow, however, was so persistent that I suspected he might belong to the man devouring breed. Peran was down with me, but I could not see him. The visitor turned out to be a blue shark and a dangerous customer. He came up rather close, and I felt rather shaky as he eyed me. A noise near me made me turn my head. There was Peran, with a big cheese knife in his hand, just making a slash at the sea wolf that cut him open. They hauled us up, and that ended the day's work for Tom Newell.

Peran did not seem to mind it at all. For a young chap, devoid of fear, that fellow took the cake. The crew stood in awe of him, boy though he was. He had a way of looking steadily with his big eyes like the black African lions. Yet he was as gentle as a girl. Well, we raked and raked the bottom, but got only old iron.

You'd think Peran would have given in with disgust. But he got more and more hopeful, though it was going on two months, and he was paying out big wages.

He never communicated his conclusions to me, so I was to some extent working in the dark. I tell you I was almost devoured with curiosity. We even had to guess that it was a search for treasure. The oldest sailor in Norfolk and the people along shore had never heard of any ship being lost thereabouts.

Well, there we are! We got big wages—all of us—as I told you. Ten dollars a day was my figure. The grub was excellent, the schooner nicely fitted up, and taken altogether it wasn't bad.

All at once we went on a new tack. There was a low reef at the outer side of the square we had marked out, about 500 yards away from the ripraps. Before the raps were constructed the swift current at the bottom must have set differently. At least I thought so and told Peran. He nodded in a pleased way. As I made it out, the work on the new tack was to discover how the tide ran in former years. That was what Peran was working out, I was sure, for suddenly we were set to building a trap. We got a cargo of stone from Norfolk.

Why didn't the government interfere? Well, however he got it, Peran had a permit from the secretary of war or some one up there in Washington, and none of the authorities gave us any trouble.

A nice, dark skinned man came to visit us once or twice, and I heard afterward that he was the Spanish minister. He joked a good deal with Louis in his own lingo and laughed. I really think the old gentleman was of my opinion and believed we were chasing rainbows.

Well, we built two curving walls at an angle of about 70 degrees and left the angle open. One of these walls ran over to the shoal of the raps. The other was shorter. Inside this we began excavating. We used dynamite, and in front of the line we anchored a big, curiously shaped dragwedge dredge. The submarine ditch we made extended at right angles with a line drawn from Fort Monroe to the raps and was about 1,000 feet in length. There was no current there when we finished, and the water was 20 fathoms deep.

I began to see dimly that we had changed the current and sent it over the old course through the big mud banks. The flood tide washing in from the capes met this current, and at one stage of the tide sent it in a circle clear round the raps.

The mud was finally broken up. The water was roilly for over a month. During that time we men took a rest, but Peran spent most of his fixing up an electrical apparatus with a galvanometer. He lowered a cable—regular telegraph cable it was—and connected it with the big iron, wedge shaped dredge. Then he fixed up about a hundred glass jars into an electric battery.

Jim Biddle had charge of the dredge, and his instructions were to go out about half a mile toward the capes in a line with the raps every day and dredge inward until past the schooner.

It was then Peran began to sit in his cabin with his eyes on the galvanometer.

All at once there appeared to be a great change in the lad. He was irritable and would allow no one in his cabin. When I asked if he desired me to go down to the bottom and take a look around, his eyes fairly blazed, and he looked like a young panther about to spring. But all at once he softened and reached out his hand.

"No, Tom," he said quietly. "There's no need. We are near the end of our work."

For the life of me I couldn't say if he'd found treasure or not. You could tell nothing from his face.

Well, we staid there and swept 10 acres of the bottom with that wedge shaped dredge, but never a man was sent down to see if we had raked anything into the ditch we had made with the dynamite.

Then the crew was paid off. They thought the whole thing a failure. The schooner ran into Norfolk. The dredge was broken up. The schooner was sent back to New Bedford. Peran took lodgings in town. He kept me on at full wages and sent for a complete new outfit for two divers.

By this I knew we were not through with the search. We also got a new machine for sending down air which we ourselves could control at the bottom. Some of these things I don't care to talk about, for he made over all the ideas to me, and I am going to have them patented. I can give up diving then, for I'll be a rich man.

He seemed to be looking all the time for letters, and at the end of a month a big envelope was brought by a man who looked the typical Spanish don all over. It was addressed to "Don Luis de Aguado de Perano, duke of Castelonia, care of Louis Peran, Hotel Atlanta, Norfolk, Va., United States of America."

The Spanish minister, the same nice old fellow who joked so with Peran, came down from Washington, and the three went into secret session.

The result of the "powwow" was apparent a week later. A Spanish gunboat ran in under the lee of the capes and came to anchor. We went aboard, and I'm blessed if the whole crew, officers and all, didn't turn out to receive us and give us a salute. Peran had a talk with the captain, and the next day the gunboat anchored right over the spot where our schooner used to lie. Our traps were brought off in a boat, and Peran himself went down to the bottom every day. He sent up in the grappling irons inside of three weeks nearly 2,000 bars of gold, each weighing about 50 pounds, besides several iron boxes all mud and nearly rusted through. One of the Spanish chaps told me they were full of diamonds and such stuff, but I never saw them.

It was the neatest piece of submarine work I ever saw. Peran took me down when he had nearly finished the job. The dredge had swept the new bottom, where the changed current had torn away the mud banks as clean as a fine tooth comb and raked everything into our ditch where it lay snug at the bottom. And I'm blessed if that there galvanometer hadn't rung a bell every time the dredge struck a bar of gold, so that Peran sitting in his cabin in the old schooner had known he had the treasure safe enough. There it lay at the bottom of our trap to be fished up at leisure and stored away in the hold of the gunboat in big steel boxes.

They tell me the Spanish government gave him half the find, that he is now a grandee, whatever that is, that his right name is Perano, and that he got back all the lands and castles of some ancestor who lost that lot of treasure long ago in Hampton Roads.

As I told you, Peran was a generous young chap, and when he was going away to Spain he gave me a check for $5,000 over and above my wages.—Lieutenant J. C. Walshe, U. S. A., in Chicago Inter Ocean.

Turkey's Formidable Guns.

In 1478 Mohammed II, in forming the siege of Scutari in Albania, employed 14 heavy bombards, the lightest of which threw a stone shot of 370 pounds weight, two sent shots of 500 pounds, one of 750 pounds, two of 850 pounds, one of 1,200 pounds, five of 1,500 and one of the enormous weight of 1,640 pounds, enormous even in these days, for the only guns whose shots exceed the heaviest of these are our 80 ton guns, throwing a 1,700 pound projectile, our 100 ton, throwing one of 2,000 pounds, and the 110 ton, throwing an 1,800 pound shot with a high velocity.

The stone shot of Mohammed's guns varied between 20 and 32 inches in diameter, about the height of a dining table; 2,534 of them fired on this occasion weighing, according to a calculation of General Lefroy's, about 1,000 tons and were cut out of the solid rock on the spot. Assuming 24 inches as the average diameter of the shot fired at the siege, the total area of the surface dressed was nearly 32,000 square feet. At this siege the weight of the powder fired is estimated by General Lefroy to have been 250 tons. At the siege of Rhodes in 1480 Mehammed caused 16 basilisks or double cannon to be cast on the spot, throwing balls 2 to 3 feet in diameter.—Chambers' Journal.

Making Money With Ease.

"An old farmer came into my office not long ago and sat down," said an Alabama banker. "I was putting my signature to some blank bills received in sheets—the usual form, you know, from the treasury department. The old farmer watched me for a few moments and asked:

"'What is that?'

"I handed him one of the sheets. He looked at the blank bills and said:

"'This is money?'

"'Yes,' I said.

"'Is that the way you make it?' he asked.

"'Yes,' said I.

"'My godlemity!' he said and walked out without another word."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Gross Carelessness.

"I'll never forget Bill Timmins," said the man who used to live in the far northwest. "Bill was as game a man as ever lived and too generous to take advantage."

"Isn't he living now?" asked the listener, who had been a good deal impressed by the sadness of the narrator's tone.

"No. I was on the coroner's jury that looked after Bill."

"What—er—what was the verdict?"

"Died of carelessness."

"Carelessness! How?"

"Got into a fight without a gun on him."—Exchange.

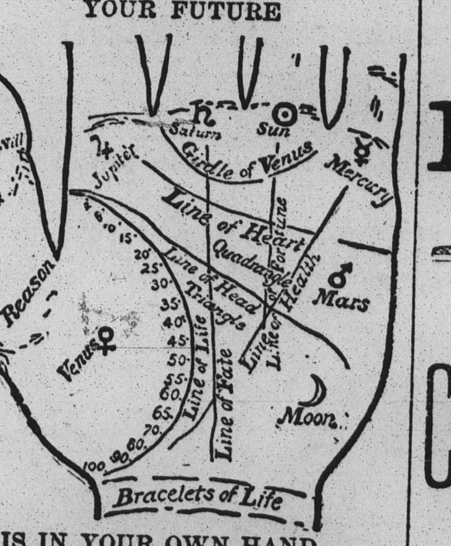
Thanksgiving Proclamation.

President Cleveland has issued the following proclamation:

By the President of the United States of America—Proclamation: While the American people should every day remember with praise and thanksgiving the divine goodness and mercy which have followed them since their beginning as a nation, it is fitting that one in each year should be especially devoted to the contemplation of the blessing we have received from the hand of God, and to grateful acknowledgment of His loving kindness. Therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 30th day of the present month of November, as a day of thanksgiving and praise, to be kept and observed by all the people in our land. On that day let us forego our ordinary work and employments and assemble in our usual places of worship where we may recall all God has done for us, and where from the grateful hearts our united tribute of praise and song may reach the Throne of Grace. Let the reunion of kindred and the social meeting of friends lend cheer and enjoyment to duty, and let generous gifts of charity for the relief of the poor and needy prove the sincerity of our thanksgiving. GROVER CLEVELAND.

By the President: Walter Q. Gresham, Secretary of State.

YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucus surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and it is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

STRICKEN DEAD.

TRUSTWORTHY STATEMENTS.

A recent New York dispatch reads: "James C. H——, a fine looking and apparently healthy man, was observed to stagger while walking on Fifth Avenue this afternoon, and after taking one or two uncertain steps fell to the sidewalk. When picked up he was dead. A physician examined the body, and pronounced heart disease the cause of death. A peculiarly sad feature of the case is that Mr. H—— was on his way to Maine, to settle in the home of his boyhood. He had passed the previous ten years in the western mining country, and had amassed a fortune. If YOU have any of the symptoms given in the following testimonials you should lose no time in seeking relief.

From John L. Roberts, Slatington, Pa.: "I have suffered with palpitation, irregular pulse, fainting and smothering spells, pain in shoulders, side, and arms for over forty years. For twelve years have been treated without avail by prominent physicians in my neighborhood and in New York. Growing constantly worse, smothering spells followed one another, so my life was often in danger and I needed constant care. As my son had been cured by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, he sent me three bottles. The first dose gave me instant relief. Before using the last bottle I was completely cured. Although seventy-five years old I feel twenty years younger. I claim my cure to be almost a miracle."

Here is a letter from Mrs. John Kolges, of Cleveland, O.: "I had been troubled with my heart and stomach for years, but for sixteen months had been confined to my bed. I had four of the best doctors in the city, but none of them could benefit the weakness of my heart. I also had dropsy and rheumatism. I never took medicine that relieved me at once as Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure does. I am much stronger. My appetite is splendid. I gain strength with every dose. I have gained more in six weeks from your treatment than in sixteen months from all the doctors."

"Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists. It is safe, effective, agreeable, and does cure." Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,
THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

If you have poultry for sale do not fail to read the adv. of Harry Fisheer, which appears in another column. He is buying up all the poultry in sight.

One of the largest wild cats ever seen in the mountains surrounding Sonoma Valley was treed and killed by Frank Lay and a pack of hounds on the Willett ranch last Tuesday afternoon.

There was a slight rainfall last Sunday night and Monday morning. The rain fell in gentle showers, and did no damage to the grape crop, about one-third of which remains unpicked.

Robert Hall, one of Sonoma Valley's representative citizens, has been in Santa Rosa the past week. He is a member of the Grand Jury, which is investigating among other things the robbery of the City Treasury of Healdsburg.

Wine-making still continues in this valley, but will cease about the latter part of the present month. So far the season has been very favorable for wine makers and in consequence the vintage of 1893 will be an exceptionally fine one.

State Controller Colgan has placed us under obligations this week for a neatly bound volume of the State and County Rates of Taxation from 1871 to 1896. Also a statement of amount of taxes due the State and counties of the various railroads.

A new kitchen is being added to the Sonoma House by Harry Fisheer. A fine new billiard table has also been purchased, and the bar freshly stocked with the best brands of wines, liquors and cigars. The house will be thrown open to the general public next week.

Shooting on the Senator Jones ranch has been prohibited by order of S. L. Jones, the Senator's brother and business manager. The ranch will be placarded with notices to-day and any person found shooting on the place will surely be arrested and prosecuted for trespass. This move has been made necessary owing to the reckless shooting of duck hunters and for the protection of the stock on the place.

O. M. Welborn of Gilroy, Santa Clara county, has been appointed Collector of the First Internal Revenue District vice Collector Quinn. This reminds us that Hon. Robt. Howe of this place is an applicant for Collector of the Fourth Internal Revenue District. Of course the Republican who now holds the position, Hon. W. H. Byington, is sure to get bounced to give place to a Democrat, which is nothing more than right and proper from a political stand point. This being so we trust that Mr. Howe will secure the place. The appointment will please the Democrats, because Bob. is a competent and honest man and a Democrat. The Republicans will likewise be pleased because they know that Mr. Byington will have to go and that no better man could be selected from the Democratic ranks to fill his place than Mr. Howe.

SEQUEL TO A SEDUCTION CASE.

Marriage of Robt. Magetti and Carrie Baccala.

The wedding of Robert Magetti and Carrie Baccala took place last Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Judge Cheney at the home of the young lady's parents in the northwestern part of town. The only persons present were the contracting parties, the Judge who tied the nuptial knot and the parents of the blushing bride. The marriage is the sequel to the seduction case which was ventilated in Judge Cheney's Court a few weeks ago, wherein Carrie Baccala, the alleged victim of Robt. Magetti's wiles, was the principal witness for the prosecution.

The result of the examination before Judge Cheney was that Magetti was bound over in the sum of $500 to answer to a charge of seduction in the Superior Court. As conviction meant a term of years in San Quentin Magetti evidently came to the conclusion that the best way out of the dilemma was to marry the girl and acknowledge the paternity of the offspring in the case.

The charge against him will now be dismissed.

The bride and groom will leave shortly for Marin county, where they will make their home.

Pulled Up Stakes.

Gus. Weisenhaven, the barber, has pulled up stakes and left for San Francisco. He says Sonoma is the meanest town he has ever struck. That when he first located here, eighteen months ago, people came to him who were evidently jealous of their neighbors and advised him to have nothing to do with that person or this person. That they were no good. He followed their advice and found to his sorrow that the people who were no good were the very ones who had tendered him the gratuitous advice, while the really good people of the town where those whom his advisors had warned him to have nothing to do with. Moral: When a new comer locates in this town let him beware of the evil-tonged if he desires to become a popular and prosperous citizen. We might add here by way of parenthesis that during Gus's eighteen month's stay in this place he nearly starved to death.

Kicked by a Horse.

B. L. Cook, while engaged in feeding a horse belonging to D. H. Twing in the Union Livery Stables last Thursday morning, narrowly escaped being kicked to death. He was in the act of entering the stall with a pan of barley in his hand, when the horse, a comparatively gentle animal, let fly with both hind feet, striking Mr. Cook on the left leg and knocking him and the barley in two different directions. Had he been a little farther away from the horse he might have been instantly killed, but as it was, he was more or less hurt by the kick. This is the second time in the past six months that Mr. Cook has barely escaped being killed by a horse.

Complaint of Taxpayers.

Complaint is being made by the taxpayers of Sonoma Township this year in regard to payment of taxes. They say that some one ought to be sent down to this place to receive the taxes, but if this cannot be done that a list of taxpayers for the township should be made out by the Collector and the amount of taxes due set opposite each name. We would suggest that such a list be made out and forwarded to Judge Breitenbach of this place, as has been done in former years. Such a list in his office will be a great accommodation to the taxpayers of Sonoma and vicinity. The Judge will charge nothing for his services.

The Man With the Wooden Ponies.

The merry-go-round fellow has pulled up stakes and left town after a two-week's sojourn in this delightful village. During his brief stay he raked in nearly all the small change in town and won the hearts of half-a-dozen unsophisticated maidens, who went back on their country beaux for the man with the wooden ponies.

Duck Shooting.

Geese and ducks are making their appearance in large numbers in the marsh lands south of town. Several fine bags have been made the past week by local hunters. On Tubbs' Island, one day last week seventy-five canvasback were bagged by a city nimrod, who had been given permission to shoot on the island by the foreman of the ranch.

MIDWINTER FAIR.

The Supervisors Set Down on a Proposition to Appropriate $1,000.

A committee of citizens waited upon the Board of Supervisors last Tuesday afternoon and asked for an appropriation toward making an exhibit at the coming Midwinter Fair.

The committee strongly urged an appropriation and asserted that the taxpayers of Sonoma county, for the most part, favored the proposition.

On the conclusion of remarks made by I. DeTurk, Judge Overton, R. A. Thompson and others, Supervisor Joost of Healdsburg introduced a resolution calling for an appropriation of $1,000.

Supervisors Joost and Hall voted in the affirmative, but the resolution was lost by the negative votes of Supervisors Thompson, Mead and Sales.

Chairman Mead in explaining his vote said as a taxpayer he did not feel that the Board had any right to vote the people's money for any such purpose.

A Valuable Ranch.

A. D. Manuel and family of this valley leave to-day for his Napa county farm, near Calistoga, where they will reside in the future. On this farm has recently been developed several ledges of gold and silver bearing quartz. The silver mine has been pronounced by mining experts to be the richest on the Pacific Coast. Specimens from the gold mine assay $27 per ton, and the ledge is almost of unlimited width. Mr. Manuel has been offered $100,000 for a controlling interest in these mines but has declined the offer. A shaft has been sunk to a depth of twenty-feet on the gold ledge and the deeper the shaft the richer the rock becomes. The lucky owner will erect a five-stamp quartz mill near the gold-bearing ledge and commence crushing rock at an early day.

The Election.

The election last Tuesday in the East was a great victory to the Republicans and a severe rebuke to President Cleveland, whose autocratic policy the past few months has been more than the American people could stand and which has been repudiated at the polls by both Republicans and Democrats.

REMINGTON.

Glen Ellen, Nov 9, 1893.

He Got His Receipt.

"What are you waiting for?" said one of our local lawyers the other day to an Indian who had paid him money. "Receipt," said the Indian. "A receipt!" said the lawyer, "a receipt!" "What do you know about a receipt? Can you understand the nature of a receipt? Tell me the nature of one and I will give it to you."

"S'pose mabe me die; me go to heben; me find the gate locked; me see 'postle Peter; he say, Jim, what you want?' Me say: 'Want to get in.' 'You pay A. that money?' What me do? I hab no receipt; hab to hunt all over hell to find you."

He got his receipt.—Carson Appeal.

The San Francisco Bulletin says this of woman's effort in that city to cleanse the columns of the press: "It can be said without fear of contradiction that the office of the newspaper is not to lead the young or the old either through the dark passages of the slums and familiarize them with sights and sounds which should be kept far away from them. In that capacity the newspaper becomes a corruptor of young and old and a public scandal. Even the pursuit of the nimble nickel will not justify the pulling aside of every veil and the exploration of every cesspool. * * * The women of California will have accomplished a great work if they should compel sensational journalists to return to the paths of sobriety and decency. They yield a power which can be made to tell in the controversy with fearful effect. It is their duty to protect the home from the intrusion of the newspaper vagabond."

COST OF ELECTRICAL COOKING.

A Southern Estimate of the Expense of Preparing a Meal at Home.

As to the cost of electric cooking, a few figures from a letter to the London Electrical Review are pertinent. The writer of this letter refers to the fact that there are a large number of cooking operations where the heat has to be applied for short periods of time and only at such points where it is actually required. It is to such operations that electricity is especially applicable owing to the quick and ready way it will furnish heat. Cooking operations, such as baking, would seem to be unadapted for electric heating owing to length of time heating must be continued, but attention is called to the fact that the oven being entirely closed there is need for a full current only for the time necessary to bring the oven up to the proper temperature, and that only one-fourth of the original current is necessary to maintain the heat and carry on the cooking.

The writer of the letter referred to has conducted a number of experiments in electric cooking, and his results are taken for our estimate, which is based upon the cost of electric power in southern stations. Electric power for heating and cooking, we think, could be obtained at motor power rates, especially as cooking is generally performed during the day, when the electric current is not needed for lights. This rate among our southern stations is generally below 10 cents per 1,000 Watt hours—being about 7 cents on an average. Taking our usual pressure of 50 volts, the unit of 1,000 Watt hours would give 20 amperes for one hour, which would cost 7 cents.

The electric toaster will toast two large slices of bread thoroughly in one minute. The toaster will consume 14 amperes at 50 volts. Allowing 15 minutes, one could readily toast a loaf of bread at a cost for electric power of 1 1-6 cents. The electric griller will cook four chops in 12 minutes, using 12 amperes at 50 volts, and if one allowed 15 minutes in all (three minutes for heating griller) our heat for this operation will cost us a fraction over 1 cent. A pint of water can be boiled for about six-tenths of a cent, and so on. From these figures it can be seen that a good breakfast, with chops, eggs, toast and coffee for four, could be cooked at a cost for heat of about 6 cents.

The ease and certainty with which the heat can be raised or a fixed temperature maintained make electrical heating the par excellence method of cooking. For instance, in roasting or baking the heat can be maintained so regularly all around the electric oven and so uniformly that it is not necessary to baste the meat or to turn the bread while cooking. If we consider with this the advantage of the freedom from smoke, smell, dirt and waste heat, and the readiness and ease with which heat is obtained, we can certainly say that electrical heating, all things considered, is cheap and desirable.—Dixie.

Senator Wolcott's Wonderful Wardrobe.

Mr. Wolcott is the only man in the senate who claims to be dressy. He has an extraordinary collection of clothing, and he probably spends not less than $10,000 a year on dress. I know of one year when he sent a check for $2,500 in March to a New York firm that makes his clothing, and this represented only what he had ordered since Jan. 1.

In his house at Washington Mr. Wolcott has one room of fair size, fitted with shelves like a dry goods shop, devoted entirely to the storage of clothing. Another room adjoining is devoted to shoes, of which Mr. Wolcott has almost a countless number. When he takes off a suit of clothing, his valet brushes it, folds it and lays it away on a shelf. When he takes off a pair of shoes, a "form" is slipped into each of them before they are put in their places in the shoeroom, so that they may not lose their shape.

Mr. Wolcott never wears the same suit two days in succession. He seldom wears a suit more than once a month. He has a new suit made every week. Mr. Wolcott is in strong contrast with the average senator, who has one suit made in the fall and another in the spring, and who gets through the year with one change of clothing.—Philadelphia Times.

Foreign and American Pearl Fishers.

The beautiful pink and bronze pearls from Wisconsin are becoming very scarce. The pearl bearing mollusks in Wisconsin streams are practically fished out, as they have been out of almost all the waters in this country where pearls have been found in any considerable numbers. European fishers open the shells with an instrument that does not destroy the animal inside, and if no pearl is found it is put back into the water. The American pearl fisher destroys ruthlessly, and in two or three years he has thrown himself out of a job. —San Francisco Argonaut.

How the Siamese Dispose of Their Dead.

Cremation of the dead is general in Siam. Those who die a usual death may be cremated at once. Those who die of cholera, commit suicide or die by accident must first be buried. Victims of capital punishment are thrown to dogs and vultures.—Philadelphia Press.

Is Life Worth Living?

That depends upon the Liver. If the Liver is inactive the whole system is out of order—the breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or aching, energy and hopefulness gone, the spirit is depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues. The Liver is the housekeeper of the health; and a harmless, simple remedy that acts like Nature, does not constipate afterwards or require constant taking, does not interfere with business or pleasure during its use, makes Simmons Liver Regulator a medical perfection.

I have tested its virtues personally, and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Throbbing Headache, it is the best medicine the world ever saw. Have tried forty other remedies before Simmons Liver Regulator, and none of them gave more than temporary relief, but the Regulator not only relieved but cured.

How is This?

Something unique even in these days of mammoth premium offers, it is the latest effort of Stafford's Magazine, a New York monthly of home and general reading.

The proposition is to send the Magazine one year for one dollar, the regular subscription price; and in addition to send each subscriber fifty-two complete novels during the twelve months: one each week.

Think of it. You receive a new and complete novel, by mail, post paid, every week for fifty-two weeks, and in addition you get the magazine once a month, for twelve months, all for one dollar. It is an offer which the publishers can only afford to make in the confident expectations of getting a hundred thousand new subscribers. Among the authors in the coming series are, Wilkie Collins, Walter Besant, Mrs. Oliphant, Mary Cecil Hay, Florence Marryat, Anthony Trollope, A. Conan Doyle, Miss Braddon, Captain Marryat, Miss Thackery and Jules Verne. If you wish to take advantage of this unusual opportunity, send one dollar for Stafford's Magazine, one year. Your first copy of the magazine and your first number of the fifty-two novels (one each week) which you are to receive during the year will be sent you by return mail. Remit by P. O. PASTOR KOENIG'S

NERVE TONIC

ALAMOSA, COL., Jan., '89. XII

My wife was troubled with nervousness about one year before she took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and at that time had very severe attacks of spasm, convulsion, and pains in different parts of the body; when in this state her lower jaws would act violently and set sometimes, bite her tongue, breathe heavily, then short, then seemed to stop entirely, get a wild look in her eyes and rolling around, then stop sometimes; it would take two men to hold her in bed otherwise her body would cramp and be so for two hours. She took but two bottles of the Nerve Tonic, which cured her entirely of all these torments, which myself and wife gladly testify it truly had the desired effect D. S. M'GILLIS.

Mrs. Ester Devilbiss, 354 S. Tenth street, San Jose, Cal., writes, October 1889: Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic has indeed done wonders in my part of the country. There has been bought in my neighborhood over $75 worth.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

STAR, LANE CO., OREGON, Feb. 8th, 1892.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,

Dear Sirs:—I have used your KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE for the last twelve years never being without it but a few weeks in that time and I have made several wonderful cures with it. I cured a Curb of long standing. Then I had a four year old colt badly Sweenied; tried every thing without any benefit, so I tried your liniment, and in a few weeks he was well and his shoulder filled up all right, and the other, a four year old that had a Thoroughpin and Blood Spavin on the same joint, and to-day no one can tell which leg it was on. These statements can be proven, if necessary; the four year olds are now seven and can be seen any day at Cottage Grove, Or.

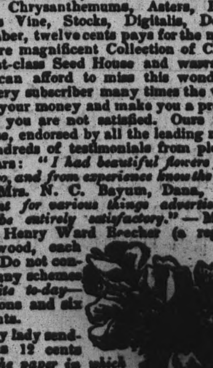
OUR NEW 1893 FLOWER SEED OFFER.

A Magnificent Collection of FLOWER SEEDS 200 Varieties, FREE!

An Unparalleled Offer by an Old-Established and Reliable Publishing House! THE LADIES' WORLD is a large 20-page, 80-column illustrated Magazine for ladies and the family circle. It is devoted to stories, poems, ladies' fancy work, artistic needlework, home decoration, housekeeping, fashions, hygiene, juvenile reading, etiquette, etc. To introduce this charming ladies' paper into 100,000 homes where it is not already taken, we now make the following colossal offer: Upon receipt of only 12 Cents in silver or stamps, we will send The Ladies' World for Three Months, and to each subscriber we will also send Free and postpaid, a large and magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds, two hundred varieties, including Pansies, Verbenas, Chrysanthemums, Asters, Phlox Drummondii, Balsam, Cypress Vine, Stocks, Digitalis, Double Zinnia, Pinks, etc., etc. Remember, twelve cents pays for the magazine three months and this entire magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds, put up by a first-class Seed House and warranted fresh and reliable. No lady can afford to miss this wonderful opportunity. We guarantee every subscriber many times the value of money sent, and will refund your money and make you a present of both seeds and Magazine if you are not satisfied. Ours is an old and reliable publishing house, endorsed by all the leading newspapers. We have received hundreds of testimonials from pleased patrons during the past five years: "I had beautiful flowers from the seeds you sent me two years ago, and from experience know the seeds are exactly as advertised."—Mrs. N. C. Bayum, Dana, Wis. "Myself and friends have sent for various things advertised by you, and have found them to be entirely satisfactory."—M. J. Davis, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher (a regular subscriber), and Grace Greenwood, each ordered our seeds last season. Do not confound this offer with the catchpenny schemes of unscrupulous persons. Write to-day—don't put it off! Six subscriptions and six Seed Collections sent for 60 cents.



SPECIAL OFFER! To any lady sending us 12 cents for above offer, and naming the paper in which she saw this advertisement, we will send free, in addition to all the above, one packet of the celebrated Eckford Sweet Peas, embracing the newest varieties, including Boreatton, Isa Eckford, Splendor, The Queen, Orange Prince, Apple Blossom, etc. Sweet Peas are the most popular and fashionable bouquet flowers now cultivated, and the Eckford Varieties which we offer, are the largest, finest and most celebrated known. They grow to a height of 6 feet, and produce for three months a continuous profusion of fragrant blooms of the most brilliant coloring.

ANOTHER GREAT OFFER! Upon receipt of Thirty-five Cents (our regular subscription price) we will send The Ladies' World for One Year, together with our magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds above described, likewise one packet of the extensively advertised and justly celebrated Eckford Sweet Peas. Address:

S. H. MOORE & CO., 27 Park Place, New York.
